Adobe Lightroom This new version of Adobe's photo-editing software offers many more features than Photoshop, such as a sophisticated image organizer that lets you find images quickly and automatically group photos in albums and collections, and offers editing features that Photoshop doesn't. You can sync images between this program and Photoshop. It also has many other features. For example, you can flip the image, crop the image, or watermark the image. Its view finder is designed so that you can see the image in two dimensions as well as a 3-D view of the image. The program also has an easy-to-use, automatic adjustment tool that makes it possible to alter your photos to fit the needs of a specific situation (such as the need for a particular background color to match your curtains). The program also offers impressive printing, converting, and web-publishing capabilities. You can sync your collection of images to a network location for easy access. Effect of high diastolic blood pressure on progression of diabetic nephropathy in patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus. Diabetic nephropathy is the leading cause of renal failure in developed countries. A number of studies suggest that a prolonged elevation of blood pressure might be harmful to the kidney. The aim of this study was to evaluate the effect of high diastolic blood pressure on progression of diabetic nephropathy in patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus. A total of 188 patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus and nephropathy were included in the study. Primary end-points were 1-year blood pressure and renal survival. Secondary end-points were the progression of retinopathy, proteinuria, and estimated glomerular filtration rate (eGFR). Of the 188 patients who were included in the study (104 men and 84 women), 75 (40.32%) had systolic blood pressure above 130 mm Hg, 51 (27.17%) had diastolic blood pressure above 80 mm Hg and 112 (58.59%) had both systolic and diastolic blood pressure above 130 mm Hg. Of the 188 patients, 15 (8.05%) died and 5 (2.68%) reached end-stage renal disease. The patients who died were older (57.3 ± 9.2 vs. 50.2 ± 8.8 , $P = 0.001$) and had more advanced nephropathy than patients who reached end-stage renal disease (6.33 ± 3.9 vs. 3.17 ± 3.3 , $P = 0.01$). The hazard ratio of dying or reaching end-stage renal disease was 4.9 when systolic blood pressure was >130 mm Hg ($P = 0.011$), 2.9 when diastolic blood pressure was >80 mm Hg ($P = 0.027$), and 0.4 when systolic and diastolic blood pressure were both >130 mm Hg ($P = 0.043$).

However, there was no correlation between the other secondary end-points and systolic

Early decision-making in primary care: a time for reflection and synergy. Early decision-making can be a part of primary care management, especially for the malignant disease. Early diagnosis by physicians can shorten the diagnostic period, improve the survival rate and avoid the complications of advanced cancer. "Early diagnosis" is one of the topics of primary care today, and the importance of multidisciplinary collaboration with other disciplines should be reflected on. In order to improve our primary care system, we propose two activities: (1) sensitization activities and (2) a time for reflection and synergy.
